TRIP TO TORONTO & CHICAGO

7/12/91 Left for Toronto. We went directly to hotel. We walked around Toronto and bought tickets for baseball game at The Sky Dome. Went to dinner and called it a day.

7/13/91 We all went to The Sky Dome to see The Blue Jays take on The Texas Rangers. Nolan Ryan pitched for Texas. He is considered one of the greatest pitchers of all time. Trying to get tickets for a Blue Jays game is like pulling teeth. They had numerous sellouts this season. The sky Dome is something eles. After the game went to a Chinese Resturant called "Kwong Chow Karoke". This is a Chinese Resturant with sing-along videos and it is a fun place. The food is very good. Maria and Sandy this resturant is your type of place. Went back to hotel and relaxed.

7/14/91 Went by boat to The Toronto Islands. This place has several yatch clubs, Kiddie Park and tables for picnics. Lake Ontario surrounds The Islands. One of the Islands is called Center Island. Went to see a show called "Love Potion #4. The Play is quite good. Ate dinner at a resturant on the island, where there is a fantastic view of the city.

7/15/91 Joel and Ken went to the Chinese Resturant for a buffet lunch. Joel and Ken walked down Younge Street. Went to Ontario Place and saw a flim called Circle Of Fire. This was about volcanos and Earthquakes. Went to see a group called 1964. This group only dose Beattle Music. This show is in an outdoor resturant setting. Came back to hotel and called it a day.

7/16/91 Took a bus tour and boat tour of the city. Had dinner and called it a day. We leave tomorrow for Chicago.

7/17/91 Left Toronto for Chicago. The train took all day. Went for dinner and called it a day.

7/18/91 Everybody started to arrive at hotel. We had dinner with John Lanigan, Andy Dragos and Marty Gorman. We went to a Greek Resturant called "The Partheonon". The food was very good. Came back to hotel and went up to Juda and Diane's room to get our wrestling packets. Called it a day.

7/19, 91 We went to breakfast. Left for wrestling in Monroe, Wisconsin.

THE GREEN COUNTY FAIR, MONROE, WISCONSIN

Johnny Mercedes W. Sonny Rogers (Sonny executed a good mokay flip. Johnny started to work Rogers over. Rogers used a clothesline. Rogers told the fans that Johnny was in a fitness commercial. They showed the before and after. Rogers, then, said that Johnny was the before. Johnny tried to pin Rogers, but no luck. Sonny used a dropkick and a sleeper hold. Johnny pinned Sonny with his foot on the ropes. This gets an 8.)

Frank The Tank Nelson W. Cody Hunter (Frank used a good dropkick. Cody's Manager started to call Nelson a Moron. The fans started to call Cody "Chubby Bubbles". The Tank used a good elbow to the head. Cody came off the top rope and Tank moved out of the way. Frank at this point went for a pin fall with a big splash. This match gets an 8.)

Ondy Austin W. The Dazzler (Austin used a good take down and arm drag. The Dazzler tossed Ondy's face to the mat floor. Austin started to stomp on The Dazzler's back. Austin executed a back body rop. Ondy pinned The Dazzler with an elbow off the top rope. This gets a 9.)

K.C. Knight W. Iron Mike Sampson (Sampson executed a power slam. Knight executed a great take down, flying head lock and a very good clothesline. Knight executed another good flying head lock. Sampson used a very good back breaker and a good suplex. Knight used a good head scissors. Sampson executed a good slam, neck breaker and side suplex. Knight started to punch Sampson in the head. Knight executed a good dropkick. Sampson used a good pile driver. They started to pin one another. The referee was knocked down. The Zebra Kid came in and tried to use a chain on Knight. K.C. moved out of the way and Sampson was clobbered. The referee, then, took the three count and knight was declared the winner and kept his Middle-weight Championship. This was the best match of the night and gets a 10.)

Ken Patera W. Captain Fantastic (Patera pinned Fantastic in twelve seconds. This match gets a 2.)

The Dream Warriors D.DQ. The Untouchables (The Untouchables are the Tag Team Champions. One of The Warriors executed a good drop kick and clothesline. One of The Warriors punched one of The Untouchables. The Untouchables executed a good double shoulder block. They started to fight out of the ring. The Warriors went to work on The Untouchables. The referee had enough and disqualified both teams. This gets a 9.)

Jim Brunzell W. Mad Max (This was a World Heavyweight Match. Jim is the champion. Max hit, choked and twisted the head and chin of Brunzell. Jim dropkicked Max. Mad Max's Manager tried to use a foreign object on Jim. Brunzell moved out of the way. Max fell to the mat floor and Jim pinned him. This gets an 8.)

This match was a battle royal. Order of elimination is as follows:
1) The Sinister 2) Johnny K. 3) Trevor Blanchard 4) The Assassin 5) Sonny Rogers 6) Cody Hunter 7) Johnny Mercedes 8) Sampson 9) K.C. Night 10 & 11) The Hittman 12) Captain Fantastic 13) The Screamer 14) Buster 15) The Dreamer? 16) Frank The Tank Nelson 17) Ice 18) Brood 18) Ken Patera was the last one in the ring and declared the winner. This gets a 10. This card gets an 8.)

After the card went back to hotel and partied.

7/20/91 Everybody got together for the auction, which was run by Tom Burke. An auction without Tom Burke at the helm is not the same. We all went to the ring event at the gym. Came back to hotel and relaxed until the matches at night.

Savage hears wedding bells

Notes, quotes, news and views from a weary wrestling wag whose invitation to wrestling's royal wedding arrived in the mail two days ago:

● As Macho Man Randy Savage and Miss Elizabeth get set to tie the knot under a backdrop of turnbuckles and figure four leg locks, another important event should unfold at Summer Slam '91, Aug. 26 at fabled Madison Square Garden.

Sgt. Slaughter, who became the squared circle's most despised wrestler during the WWF's disgustingly inappropriate exploitation of the Persian Gulf War, is expected to turn baby face on that fateful evening in the Big Apple.

Many ring insiders, including yours truly, speculated the WWF would cast the Ultimate Warrior as a villain and was planning to establish that new persona on Aug. 26.

Slaughter ambushed

Word, however, has leaked that Slaughter, the one-time GI Joe spokesman turned U.S. traitor, will get ambushed by Gen. Adnan and Col. Mustafa during their colossal jostle with Hulk Hogan and Warrior.

Slaughter, who is really Bob Remus in civilian attire, is apparently fed up with his villainous role and demanded a change. The powers that be with the WWF have apparently relented.

Slaughter, who was being groomed as the WWF's kingpin prior to the emergence of the Hulkster in the early '80s, left the organization following a bitter dispute with boss Vince McMahon.

Slaughter returned earlier this year and essentially bowed to every demand made by McMahon, who forged the pro-Iraqi association.

If anything, Slaughter is considerably richer in his second WWF incarnation.

● Ric Flair remains a very confused wrestling superstar without portfolio.

FLAIR

The Nature Boy has been contacted by the WWF after being fired by the WCW. Flair, 40, is faced with an unusual problem — he would like to continue, but he hates the WWF. In the end, the WWF's riches should be enough to entice Flair.

● Quote of the week emanates from the tongue of Bobby (The Brain) Heenan, who had this to say about a slow-counting official: "This bozo couldn't ring a door bell."

● "I am the Mountie!" ... No more. I guess it is true — the RCMP always gets its man. Jacques Rougeau has been turfed in Canada by the RCMP. In case you missed this week's report out of Ottawa, the RCMP has banned Rougeau, who wrestles as the Mountie, from appearing in Canada, although the WWF can continue its portrayal of the Mountie in the U.S., where the RCMP has no jurisdiction. The Canuck feds, however, are counting on the goodwill of the WWF to eliminate the character altogether. We wish them good luck.

● A warm farewell to Mick Hans, a Toronto native who is leaving for Japan, where the strapping 20-year-old is hoping to follow in the formidable footsteps of his legendary father — Tiger Jeet Singh. Hans, who is 6-foot-5, 260 pounds, has been training extensively and says his foray into full-time wrestling is imminent.

Singh's gopher

Vancouver's John Tenta, a one-time sumo wrestling champion who now creates havoc as the Earthquake, used to be Singh's gopher, according to Hans.

To the squared circle's initiates, wrestling in Japan is radically different to the mat mayhem we see each week on TV. In Japan, wrestling is a revered discipline that is taken seriously by everyone involved.

During his trips to Japan, Hans has met Andre the Giant and Hogan, who was pinned by Singh inside Japan's EggDome. Over the years, several have unsuccessfully tried to emulate Singh.

"People impersonate my father because he is the best," marvels Hans.

● Fantasy wrestling enthusiasts should take note of a burgeoning outfit that enables participants to create their own mat idol. The group is called Superstars Wrestling Alliance and can be reached at 20 Willowbrook Rd., Thornhill, L3T 4W9.

WWF grapples with drug problem

NEW YORK (AP) — World Wrestling Federation boss Vince McMahon has admitted using steroids he received from Dr. George Zahorian, who was convicted last month of illegally selling the drugs. "I used a steroid that I got from Dr. Zahorian very briefly about 3½ or four years ago," said McMahon, who is not a wrestler but does do some bodybuilding. McMahon made the statement at a news conference yesterday to answer allegations that the WWF is rife with steroid use.

USED STEROIDS: Vince McMahon, head of the World Wrestling Federation, tells reporters that he used steroids he got from George Zahorian, convicted of illegally selling the drugs.

WRESTLING / WWF king admits use

World Wrestling Federation owner Vince McMahon admitted to having used steroids that he received from Dr. George T. Zahorian III, who was convicted last month of illegally selling the body building drugs.

"I used a steroid that I got from Dr. Zahorian very briefly about 3½ or 4 years ago," said McMahon, who is not a wrestler himself but does do some body building. He used the steroid only once, he said.

McMahon made the admission at a news conference yesterday to answer allegations that the WWF is rife with steroid use. Zahorian said he sold steroids to various wrestlers, including WWF champion Hulk Hogan and Rowdy Roddy Piper.

Earlier this month, the WWF said it would begin including steroids in the weekly drug testing it has done since 1987. McMahon said the WWF would be able to announce some specifics of the plans "very, very soon."

Well, this brings to a close of another issue. Until our next issue.....
